The Man From Brodney's

By GEORGE BARR
M'CUTCHEON

Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead & Co.

As they rode swiftly back to the tree lined road a faint chorus of yells came to them across the valley. For some distance they rode without speaking a word to each other. They had traversed two miles of the soft dirt road before Chase discovered that Selim was the only man following them. The two men who had come out with the princess were not in sight.

"The dogs! So, you see, princess, your escort was not to be trusted," said Chase grimly.

"But they have stolen the horses," she murmured irrelevantly. "They belong to the chateau stables."

"Which direction did they take, Selim?"

"They rode off by the Carter's highway, excellency, toward Ararat."

"It may not appeal to your vanity, your highness, but it is my duty to inform you that they have gone to report our clandestine meeting."

"Clandestine! What do you mean, sir?"

"The islanders are watching me like hawks. Every time I am seen with any one from the chateau they add a fresh nail to the coffin they are preparing for me. It's really more serious than you imagine. I must therefore forbid you to ride outside of the park."

"I dare say you are right, Mr. Chase," she said at last, quite frankly. "I thank you."

"I am glad that you understand," he said simply. His gaze was set straight before him, keen, alert, anxious.

"I begin to fear, Mr. Chase," she said, with a faint smile, "that Lady Deppingham deceived me in suggesting Japan as a rest cure. It may interest you to know that the court at Rapp-Thorberg has been very gay this winter. My brother, Christobal, has been with us after two years' absence. He came with his wife from the ends of the earth, and my father forgave him in good earnest. Christobal was very disobedient in the old days. He refused to marry the girl my father chose for him. Was it not foolish of him?"

"Not if it has turned out well in the end."

"I dare say it has—or will. She is delightful. My father loves her. And my father—the grand duke, I should say—does not love those who cross him. One is very fortunate to have been born a prince." He thought he detected a note of bitterness in this rally.

"I can conceive of no greater fortune than to have been born Prince Karl of Brabetz," he said lightly. She flashed a quick glance at his face, her eyes narrowing in the effort to divine his humor.

"As I was saying," she resumed after a moment, "Lady Deppingham has lured me from sun showers into the tempest. Mr. Chase—and her face was suddenly full of real concern—"is there truly great danger?"

"I fear so," he answered. "It is only a question of time. I have tried to check this uprising, but I've failed. Last night Von Blitz, Rasula and three others came to the bungalow and coolly informed me that my services were no longer required. I told them to—to go to—"

"I understand," she said quickly. "It required courage to tell them that." He smiled.

"They protested friendship, but I can read very well as I run. But can't we find something more agreeable to talk about? May I say that I have not seen a newspaper in three months? There must be news that you can give me. I am hungry for it."

"You poor man! No newspapers! Then you don't know what has happened in all these months?"

"Nothing since before Christmas. Would you like to see a bit of news that I clipped from the last Paris paper that came into my hands?"

"Yes," she said, vaguely disturbed. He drew forth his pocketbook and took from its interior a small bit of paper. She read it at a glance and handed it back. A faint touch of red came into her cheeks.

"How very odd! Why should you have kept that bit of paper all these months?"

"You have been married nearly three months," he said reflectively—"three months and two days, to be precise." She laughed outright, a bewitching, merry laugh that startled him.

"How accurate you would be!" she exclaimed. "It would be a highly interesting achievement, Mr. Chase, if it were only borne out by facts. You see, I have not been married so much as three minutes."

He stared at her, uncomprehending. She went on, "Do you consider it bad luck to postpone a wedding?"

Involuntarily he drew his horse closer to hers. There was a new gleam in his eyes. Her blood leaped at the challenge they carried.

"Very bad luck," he said quite steadily, "for the bridegroom."

In an instant they seemed to understand something that had not even been considered before. She looked away, but he kept his eyes fast upon her half turned face, finding delight in the warm tint that surged so shamelessly to her brow. He wondered if she could bear the pounding of his heart above the thud of the horses' feet.

"We are to be married in June," she said, somewhat defiantly. Some of the light died in his eyes. "Prince Karl was very ill. They thought he might die. His—his studies—his music, I mean, proved more than he could carry. It—it is not serious. A nervous breakdown," she explained haltingly. "It was necessary to postpone the marriage. He will be quite well again, they say, by June."

"I hope he may be fully recovered, for your sake," he managed to say.

"Thank you." After a long pause she turned to him again and said, "We are to live in Paris for a year or two at least."

"He is in Paris now?"

"Will you come with me now?" "No," she answered, and that was all. He waited, but she did not expand her confidence.

"So it is to be in June," he mused. "In June," she said quietly. He sighed.

"I am more than sorry that you are a princess," he said boldly.

"I am quite sure of that," she said, so pointedly that he almost gasped. She was laughing comfortably, a mischievous gleam in her dark eyes. His laugh was as awkward as hers was charming.

"You do like to be flattered," he exclaimed at random. "And I shall take it upon myself to add to today's measure." He again drew forth his pocketbook. She looked on curiously. "Permit me to restore the lace handkerchief which you dropped some time ago. I've been keeping it for myself, but—"

"My handkerchief?" she gasped, her thoughts going at once to that ridiculous incident of the balcony. "It must belong to Lady Deppingham."

"Oh, it isn't the one you used on the balcony," he protested coolly. "It antedates that adventure."

"Balcony? I don't understand you," she protested.

"Then you are exceedingly obtuse."

"I never dreamed that you could see," she confessed pathetically.

"It was extremely nice in you and very presumptuous in me. But, your highness, this is the handkerchief you dropped in the castle garden six months ago. Do you recognize the perfume?"

"You are very sentimental," she said at last. "Would you care to keep it? It is of no value to me."

"Thanks! I will keep it."

"I've changed my mind," she said inconsequently, stuffing the fabric in her gauntlet. "You have something else in that pocketbook that I should very much like to possess."

"It can't be that Bank of England—"

"No, no! You wrapped it in a bit of paper last week and placed it there for safe keeping."

"You mean the bullet?"

"Yes. I should like it to show to my friends, you know, when I tell them how near you were to being shot." Without a word he gave her the bullet that had dropped at his feet on that first day at the chateau.

"Thank you. Oh, isn't it a horrid thing! Just to think, it might have struck you!" She shuddered.

He was about to answer in his delirium when a sharp turn in the road brought them in view of the chateau. Not a hundred yards ahead of them two persons were riding slowly, untended, very much occupied in themselves. Their backs were turned toward Chase and the princess, but it was an easy matter to recognize them. The glance which shot from the princess to Chase found a peculiar smile disappearing from his lips.

"I know what you are thinking," she cried impulsively. "You are wrong—very wrong, Mr. Chase. Lady Deppingham is a born coquette—a born trifler. It is ridiculous to think that she can be seriously engaged in a—"

"It isn't that, princess," he interrupted, a dark look in his eyes. "I was merely wondering whether dear little Mrs. Browne is as happy as she might be."

Genevra was silent for a moment. "I had not thought of that," she said soberly.

THE LOT OF HARDSHIP.

It is Ever the School in Which Greatness is Taught.

There is a purpose in circumstance. Nothing in our lives is for naught. All things which have been given us, even our chains, are meant for our making—meant for the working out of our goodly destiny. Bunyan in prison, apparently cursed by sunless hours of solitude and loneliness, was a greater Bunyan than if he had been free to roam afield. The walls which shut his body in could not confine his soul. He escaped them and went out into all the world to lift to higher levels the hope and vision of mankind. The log cabin in which Lincoln was born lent its ruggedness and simplicity to the man himself and has become a shrine which men approach with reverent feet as to some holy place which love and truth have glorified. The hard lot is ever the school in which greatness is taught, and the best scholars are those who perceive the purpose of difficulty and do not grow bitter as they grapple with it. The very genius of progressive living consists in a capacity to appreciate the day and what the day holds, to find in all seasons and events a divine conspiracy to refine the soul and make it a greater soul, to hail hardship with grim gladness and bless the hills which must be climbed, to look with kindly eyes upon every human thing, to accept with complacency the small circle of opportunity until it has been shown that we are worthy to move in a wider one. Along no other path may we come to our best and largest estate of being and serving.—Richard Wightman in Metropolitan Magazine.

The Dowager Queen Alexandra.

Alexandra, the widow of Edward VII., is now queen dowager of England, the first dowager which Great Britain has had since the time of Queen Charlotte, widow of William IV. Her position in the kingdom can be, if such is her desire, one of the greatest social and political importance, and the influence which she will be able to wield over certain destinies of the country will be no small one.

The fact, however, that she is sixty-six years old and that her life since the death of her son, Prince Albert Victor, in 1891 has been one in which sorrow and suffering have taken a large part, may lead the queen dowager to withdraw into a retirement which may be more than welcome to her. The fact that she has recently become very deaf as a result of the catarrh with which she had been burdened may also lead her to withdraw from activity of any political sort. The death of his late majesty would naturally put any social activities out of the question for some years.

Queen Alexandra is deeply religious, but in a practical way, which has led her to take the presidency of the royal national fund for nurses and to become actively interested in trained nursing work. She has always been a worker, and this trait, with her other characteristics, has ingrained her deeply into the love of the British people.

Soapstone in China.

The Chinese in utilizing soapstone, which is found in their country in large quantities, make of it trays for pens, slabs for rubbing ink, flower vases, incense boxes, sandalwood burners, flower baskets, candlesticks, chessmen, cups, bowls and lamps, all sorts of emblems, animals and the idols which the disciples of Confucius revere with so much fervor.

KING AS AN ANGLER.

His Majesty is an Enthusiastic Wielder of the Rod.

If Isaac Walton could be re-incarnated it is quite certain that King George would have no greater admirer or more loyal subject than the genial "Father of Angling," who has never had a more enthusiastic disciple than His Majesty.

King Edward was an expert wielder of the rod, and caught many a fine salmon in the waters of the Dee and the Tweed; but, as old Donald Morgan used to say, His Majesty was "not awfu' enthusiastic," a description which, we may be sure, Donald Stewart, King George's devoted companion and henchman on many a fishing expedition, would never apply to the present occupant of the throne of England.

"I love a gun," King George confessed recently, "but I am never quite so happy as when I am fishing the pools of the Dee, with the long day before me." And it is while fishing these pools in the royal preserves of Aberfeldie and Balmora, remote from courts and the crowds of men, that His Majesty has spent some of the most delightful days of his life.

Every spring for many years past the King has spent several weeks at Aberfeldie, indulging to the full in his favorite pastime. Usually with only one companion, Sir Charles Cust, he makes his headquarters at a small, two-storeyed house, Aberfeldie Mains, a few yards distant from the ancient castle. Here he leads the simple, primitive life, rising early, faring plainly, and living entirely for his sport. He usually starts at about ten o'clock in the morning, with his companion and a couple of attendants—Donald Stewart, His Majesty's head gamekeeper, and Arthur Grant, the gillie, have mostly been his companions of the humbler sort—and he devotes the whole day to the rod, smoking mild cigarettes almost incessantly.

About noon a carriage brings luncheon to the pools where His Majesty is working, and after a smoke and rest on the bank fishing is resumed as long as the light lasts, when the return for dinner is made. A post-prandial cigar and a gossip over the day's sport follow, and then it is early to bed for a good night's rest before the next day's fishing.

It was at these waters of Aberfeldie that the King first learnt the gentle art of wielding a rod, nearly forty years ago, with his father and John Brown as mentors, and he still recalls his delight at landing his first fish one spring day in the early 'sixties, and Brown's enthusiastic "Guid! Ye'll mak a braw feesher some day, Prince George."

The King, we are told, uses an 18-foot, split-cane, steel-centred rod, in preference to the greenheart beloved of Dee fishermen, and most of his fish have been taken with the fly. As a caster he has few equals, and he is an expert in every form of tackle. Not long ago, it is said, so keen was he on testing a new form of tackle which had been sent to St. James's Palace for his inspection that he actually left a levee which was in progress in order to gratify his curiosity.

The weather has no terrors for His Majesty, and during one terrible week of blizzards, frosts, and howling gales he was out all day at Aberfeldie, and counted himself amply rewarded when, at the end of the week, he crested a beauty of 9lb. with the very last cast of the day.

An Ancient Pension.

A curious revelation regarding the origin of a $1,500 pension which falls to the Lord Mayor of Dublin was made in reply to a question asked in the House of Commons the other day. It was explained that the pension was granted in consideration of services rendered to Charles II. The sum in question is a perpetual annuity granted by the Merry Monarch to the mayor of the day and his successors, for eminent services rendered at the time of the Restoration. For many years it carried with it the rank of captain in the army, with its corresponding privileges regarding command and so forth. The latter privileges have become obsolete, and the Lord Mayor of Dublin performs no military service; but the annuity is still paid out of the Consolidated Fund.

The Discovery of Blotting-Paper.

Blotting-paper was discovered purely by accident. Some ordinary paper was being made one day at a mill in Berkshire, when a careless workman forgot to put in the sizing material. The whole of the paper made was regarded as being useless. The proprietor of the mill desired to write a note shortly afterwards, and he took a piece of waste paper, thinking it was good enough for the purpose. To his intense annoyance the ink spread all over the paper. Suddenly there flashed over his mind the thought that this paper would do instead of sand for drying ink, and he at once advertised his waste paper as "blotting." There was such a big demand that the mill ceased to make ordinary paper and was soon occupied in making blotting only, the use of which spread to all countries.

Infant Marriages.

Turkey perhaps offers more facilities for the marriage of infants than any other European country. Ottoman requirements are met if bride and bridegroom are old enough to toddle from the cradle to the altar and to understand the meaning of the ceremony of marriage.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON VII.—THIRD QUARTER, FOR AUG. 14, 1910.

Text of the Lesson, Matt. xx, 1-16. Memory Verses, 6, 7—Golden Text, Matt. xix, 30—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

This parable of the laborers is found only in Matthew and has its own special significance, as we may judge from its being found only here and from its context. May the Lord the Spirit open our eyes to see and our hearts to receive His message for us. The last verse of chapter xix, with the last verse of this lesson (16), cannot but suggest a vital connection between the two. It is a record of service and reward, but there can be no service until there is salvation, for they that are in the flesh cannot please God, and those who are unsaved are said to be in the flesh and not in the Spirit (Rom. vii, 7-9). Israel could not serve the Lord till they were redeemed from Egypt; therefore the Lord's message to Pharaoh was, "Let my son go, that he may serve me" (Ex. iv, 22, 23). There is no use talking of doing until we have been born from above and have thus become children of God and heirs of the Kingdom, but then we are expected to be laborers, and who can estimate the honor of being "laborers with God?" (I Cor. iii, 9).

The redemption is His; the vineyard is His. He redeems us freely by His grace, calls us to labor with Him, appoints our service, gives the strength and wisdom for it, works all our works in us and then rewards us abundantly for allowing Him to use us. What marvelous grace from beginning to end! Truly He is the God of all grace, His grace is exceeding abundant, and He is able to make all grace abound to every good work (I Pet. v, 10; I Tim. i, 14; II Cor. ix, 8). In Isa. v, 7, we read that the vineyard of the Lord of hosts is the house of Israel and the men of Judah His pleasant plant, and He asks, "What could have been done more to my vineyard that I have not done in it, wherefore brought it forth wild grass?" This parable has doubtless a primary reference to Israel, but there is a message for all believers. The field is the world. Are we laborers in it, or are we idlers all the day in the market place or elsewhere? Do we try to excuse ourselves with the words, "No man hath hired me?" Let us recall that elsewhere it is written, "He gave authority to His servants and to every man his work" (Mark xiii, 34), and again that "He called His ten servants and delivered them ten pounds and said unto them, Occupy till I come" (Luke xix, 13). It cannot be that there are any for whom He has no work, but we must remember that He giveth to every one severally as He will (I Cor. xii, 11), not as we will. We are not quite right with Him until we have learned to look into His face and say, "For any manner of service wholly at Thy commandment." "Thy servants are ready to do whatsoever my Lord the King shall appoint" (I Chron. xxviii, 21; II Sam. xv, 15).

It may be to continue in a hard place with an unreasonable person like Hagar. It may be to serve twenty years with some unjust Laban as Jacob did. It may be to open wells like Isaac and let the Philistines have them. It may be to suffer long and unjustly as Joseph did. It may be to feed the flock of Jethro for years while all the time you can't shake off the feeling that you are called to be a great deliverer. If you are ever called to be a leader you will certainly have a visit from the Great Captain that you may submit yourself wholly and absolutely to Him as Joshua did. It may be eighteen years more at Nazareth in the most ordinary routine of a most ordinary life. Can you say "Whatsoever?" and wherever He may place you will you let your motto be "Unto the Lord," "Before the Lord." Do not bargain with Him for your penny and labor simply to get it, like so many employees who take little or no interest in their work or their employers' interests, but care only for the wages which they think they earn. Let the love of Christ constrain, the zeal of the Lord consume you. Never mind the other servants and their toil or their reward, but with absolute confidence in Him and devotion to Him let it be seen that the joy of the Lord is your strength. We are called ultimately to His kingdom and glory, but we are called now to fellowship with Him in service and suffering.

In the regeneration of the last lesson, when the twelve apostles occupy their twelve thrones, the church shall be found with Him in His throne. The word "regeneration" is found only in Matt. xix, 28, in reference to the new earth and in Tit. ii, 6, in reference to the new birth, teaching us that there must be a new birth in order to enjoy the new earth. As to rewards for service, our Lord taught in last lesson that all who for His sake deny self or renounce this world or give up loved ones shall receive a hundred-fold and shall inherit everlasting life. I think I shall never forget the astonished look of a bank cashier whom I one day asked, "What is a hundred-fold?" After a little figuring, over which he went the second time, he said, "It is 10,000 per cent." I have ever since been urging people to invest in stock that pays 10,000 per cent.

We Think So Too

A few weeks ago, the editor of the Stettler Independent was well nigh compelled to "take to the tall timber," because of the publication of two wedding notices sent in by a correspondent, whereas the weddings had not taken place. Now, one of our correspondents, from out Sedgwick way, has attempted a similar trick on us. Fortunately, we "smelled a rat" and withheld the notice. We only regret there is no way of punishing the party who will send in such a false report. A joke is all very well in its place, but to send such a report to an unsuspecting editor should be punishable with a term in jail, where the perpetrator would have plenty of time to meditate over his misdeeds—Daysland Press.

Free Homesteads

(Contributed)

Knowing the disappointment of many that come to seek homesteads in this country, I feel it my duty as well as a great pleasure seeing I have been appointed an agent for homesteads to make it known that there is not the like to be found in any country, the climate is excellent, no drought, no frost, no rocks to get out no great trees to be cut down; those who dwell there are never sick and never sigh and are forever blest. In fact you could never buy them out and there is little chance to cancel. there are twelve kinds of fruits grow on one tree and the trees bare all the time; there are rivers of the purest water no ten dollars to pay for entry fees and all the improvement are done for you without charge no shacks but a mansion for all that go there. The journey is long and you might have a passage as the fair is paid for all that will except the offer and the law of the country is perfect there is no man there that will steal your cattle or brand anything that is not his own and you can rely upon every word that is spoken. There are no liars there, nor any stray there not even a wife leaving her husband and no divorce courts but all are one, there is no man that will take another man's wife; no woman that will take another man instead of her own husband for the law of that country is perfect and very strict. I have made my entry fourteen years ago and before that I had heard little about it but there is no man that can find words to express the glories of that country, health, peace and pleasures untold; no death, no sorrow, and no tears Oh what a country, my reader will you not go, the conditions are very simple and in the reach of all but the offer will soon close; now is your chance, now is the accepted time behold now is the day of salvation when you have made a start you will learn the way as you go along, that is if you continue, for in the great guide book it is written the Path of the Just is as the shining light that shineth more and more unto the Perfect day Proverbs 4-18 and 2 Corin 3-7 and 18, now if you wish to make a start this is the conditions if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead thou shalt be saved Romans 10-8 to 11, Acts 5-28 to 22 the address of the agent and any further information can be obtained from this paper.

External Treatment Necessary for Eczema

Surprising Results Obtained from DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT in Treating This Obstinate Skin Trouble.

Eczema may arise from a variety of causes but once started it is a skin disease and will continue to spread and become more annoying until local external treatment effects a cure.

This is why Dr. Chase's Ointment has supplanted the old fashioned internal treatments which were always disappointing in results. When this soothing, healing ointment is applied you see and feel the benefits in short order. The itching, stinging sensations are overcome and with the wonderful relief thus obtained you are encouraged to continue the treatment until gradually the sores are healed up and the disease thoroughly wiped out.

What is so annoying and discouraging as disfiguring itching, skin diseases. In Dr. Chase's Ointment you have a cure for such ailments and this is so clean, pure and soothing that it becomes a great pleasure to use it. Its use makes the skin soft, smooth and velvety and for this reason it is much sought by persons whose skin is susceptible to the changes of the weather.

Mrs. Link, 12 Walker street, Halifax, N.S., states: "After three years of miserable torture and sleepless nights with terrible eczema, and after trying over a dozen remedies without obtaining anything but slight temporary relief, I have been perfectly and entirely cured by using Dr. Chase's Ointment. After the third or fourth application of this grand ointment I obtained relief, and a few boxes were sufficient to make a thorough cure. It is six months since I was freed of this wretched skin disease, and as there has been no return of the trouble I consider the cure a permanent one."

MINARD'S LINIMENT CO., Limited

Gentlemen,—In June, '98, I had my hand and wrist bitten and badly mangled by a vicious horse. I suffered greatly for several days and the tooth cuts refused to heal until your agent gave me a bottle of MINARD'S LINIMENT, which I began using. The effect was magical; in five hours the pain had ceased and in two weeks the wounds had completely healed and my hand and arm were as well as ever. Yours truly,

MAINTAIN SKIN PURITY

The constant use of Cuticura Soap, assisted when necessary by Cuticura Ointment, not only preserves, purifies and beautifies the skin, scalp, hair and hands of infants, children and adults, but tends to prevent clogging of the pores, the common cause of pimples, blackheads, inflammation, irritation, redness, roughness and other annoying and unsightly conditions. In the speedy and economical treatment of torturing, disfiguring eczemas, rashes and eruptions of the skin and scalp, these pure, sweet and gentle emollients are invaluable.

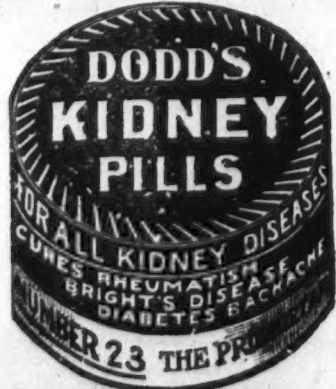

Don't spend half your time telling what you are going to do and the other half in explaining why you didn't do it.

Ammonia is an excellent cleanser for porcelain, but when dirt and grease demand an extra agent, use kerosene. It will do the work thoroughly. Apply with a rag and wipe off with warm soapsuds.

The change of dietary that comes with spring and summer has the effect in weak stomachs of a stinging inflammation, resulting in dysentery and cholera morbus. The abnormal condition will continue if not attended and will cause an exhaustive drain on the system. The best available medicine is Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial. It clears the stomach and bowels of irritants, counteracts the inflammation and restores the organs to healthy action.

When the children's books become soiled the pages can be cleaned by rubbing them with powdered pumice stone.

BEEF AND DAIRY TYPES

Prof. W. B. Richards, of the North Dakota Agricultural college, speaks interestingly relative to types of beef and dairy cattle.

"Many farmers continue to raise cattle for market for beef purposes from stock that do not possess any blood of the beef breed, and consequently they lack what is known as the beef type. It is impossible to produce beef economically from cattle of the dairy type, or even from cattle that possess any considerable amount of this blood. To produce an animal of beef type it is necessary to use the beef breeds of cattle, such as the Shorthorns, Herefords, Aberdeen-Angus and Galloways. Cattle of this breeding put on flesh very much more rapidly and of a better quality."

A beef animal could be described in a general way as a low down compact blocky animal. He must have a short blocky head, a wide breast, a deep wide chest, a broad neck, a good spring of ribs, heavy full thighs. He must have a pliable mellow skin, for this quality indicates a good fleshing tendency.

The points that a cow should possess if adapted to economical milk production are quite the opposite from what is seen in the beef animal. The dairy cow possesses a long face, thin slender neck, a sharp projecting shoulder. She is not very wide in the chest, but her capacity of chest is, due to her depth which is greater in proportion to her size than you will find in the beef animal. She possesses large barrels which indicate a good capacity for digesting her food. Her depth here should exceed her depth in any other portion of the body. A dairy cow should have a good width at the hips. Her thighs should be lean and free from muscling. She should be open between her thighs.

Much attention should be given the udder of the dairy cow—a large udder does not indicate that it is a good one. They are often very fleshy; a good udder should be elastic and pliable, and shows many folds when milked out. The teats should be placed equal distances apart and which is generally always the case if the udder is symmetrical and well proportioned. Large milk veins are good indications, the more winding and branching they are the better the indication. The veins do not carry milk, as many think, but carry the blood from the udder to the body, and the more blood that passes through the udder the more milk there is produced because the milk is produced from the blood.

A good dairy cow possesses rather thin pliable elastic skin. A coarse, harsh handling skin is a poor indication. When cows possess these qualities of skin they are rarely good producers of milk.

The Doctor's Answers

By Dr. Lewis Baker.

The questions answered below are general in character; the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply to any case of similar nature. Those wishing further advice free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Ellwood Sta., Dayton, Ohio, enclosing a self-addressed envelope for reply. K. O. M.—A lotion said to be excellent for making the eyebrows grow is as follows: Sulphate of quinine 5 grains, alcohol 1 oz. Mix. Moisten and rub twice daily. 2. Write, giving full particulars, of your female disorders and I will answer you privately.

Frank Mc.—There is no doubt about your needing a good prescription for the kidneys and bladder. Such symptoms as painful, frequent, uncontrollable urination, varied by a scanty flow and pain in bladder regions, pain in small of back, etc., are indicative of the need of a good tonic and cleansing agent. Try this, and you will find the relief you desire: Fl. ext. buchu 1 oz., comp. fl. balmwort 1 oz., syrup sarsaparilla comp. 4 ozs. Mix and take a teaspoonful before or after meals and one at bedtime. Drink plenty of water between meals, and little liquid of any kind at meals.

Dyspeptic.—Yes, I consider you have a chronic case of dyspepsia and suggest you try the following: Essence of pepsin 3 ozs., syrup of ginger 2 ozs., and comp. essence cardiol 1 oz. Mix and take a teaspoonful before or after each meal and one at bedtime if necessary. Eat more moderately and abstain from heavy, starchy foods and pork.

M. M.—A popular and successful beauty specialist used the following formula for years to assist the development of bust, arms and neck. It is usually very effective especially when an internal tonic and nutritive is used in conjunction as would be necessary in a case of extreme thinness like yours.—Formula: Tincture of cadomene comp. 1 oz., (not cardamom), glycerine 2 ozs., rosewater 3 ozs., borax a teaspoonful. Mix, apply twice daily, rubbing and massaging a tablespoonful each time until completely absorbed. Then wash with hot water and soap, dry, and massage with olive oil or sheep tallow. Then have the following prescription filled: Compound syrup of hypophosphites 6 ozs., tincture cadomene comp. 1 oz., compound essence cardiol 1 oz. Mix, shake well and take a teaspoonful before meals if appetite is not good and after meals if it is. Also a dose at bedtime. This makes a fine invigorating tonic and is perfectly harmless, no matter how long used.

A. C. K.—The best treatment for blood poison, acquired or inherited, is simple, but to be effective must be used for eight to twelve months, and sometimes longer. You know what caused the trouble, and now that the severe stage is past, you can safely use this prescription: Syrup trifolium comp. 4 ozs., comp. fl. balmwort 1 oz., comp. cardiol 1 oz. Mix, and take a teaspoonful after each meal and one at bedtime. You can if you wish obtain the ingredients and mix them yourself.

M. J.—A fine laxative cough syrup is made as follows: Aromatic cascara 1 oz., comp. cardiol 1 oz., and syrup of white pine comp. 4 ozs. Mix. Take a teaspoonful 8 to 10 times daily or as needed.

Relief for the Depressed.—Physical and mental depression usually have their origin in a disordered state of the stomach and liver, as when these organs are deranged in their action the whole system is affected. Try Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. They revive the digestive processes, act beneficially on the nerves and restore the spirits as no other pills will. They are cheap, simple and sure, and the effects are lasting.

In its ten years of effort to increase the winter laying of hens, Macdonald college, Montreal, has accustomed hardy breeds like Plymouth Rocks, to scratch in snow and obtain their food by scratching all day in a foot of straw covering the yards. The active exercise prevents the accumulation of fat. The hens and their progeny live in unheated houses, and with good feeding average 200 eggs a year, nearly one-fourth of which are produced during the severe cold of the Canadian winter.

IN OLD ANNAPOLIS.

Things Were Primitive But Happy in the First Settlement.

Annapolis, formerly Port Royal, was a "garrison town" from the time of its founding by De Monts in 1604, until, in 1853, it ceased to be the capital of the Province of Nova Scotia, and the troops were withdrawn and stationed at Halifax, and is therefore the oldest settlement in Canada.

Just how comfortably the early residents of Annapolis lived, and with how much affluence, is seen in the description given in the writings of M. Dieterville, who was in Port Royal about 1699. The town had then been settled over ninety years, and so had arrived to very fair pretensions as a pioneer in the wilderness, although no more progress had been made than was the necessary outcome of an increased immigration.

Of the residents, Dieterville says:—"They feed themselves and have surplus to sell. Hemp and flax prosper. Some use no other cloth but homespun. The wool is good, and most of the inhabitants are dressed in their own woollen homespun. Fruits, pulse and garden stuffs are excellent. Provisions are cheap; wheat 40 sous per bushel, the bushel weighs forty-one and one-half pounds; beef is two sous a pound; a pair of chickens, 10 sous; eggs, five sous per dozen; and hares, four sous apiece. (A sous, it may be mentioned, about equals a cent in our currency.) Game plenty. The founders of Port Royal knew the country well before they selected it as their fortress. They had forts at Port La Tour, at Le Have and at Muscouab. These all belonged to individuals, and when a good understanding existed amongst them, which was but rarely, they used to come to Port Royal for refreshments. But it is to be remarked that except Port Royal and Le Have, where they cultivated lands and carried on the fisheries, the other posts were only kept up for trading with the savages. Port Royal is, then, the general store of the country, and fortifying it protects Minas also, where corn is now raised, and cattle."

The first Town Council of Annapolis after its final occupation by the English was organized in the spring of 1720 by Governor Phillips. The members of that board were ten in number. The first work of this council was evidently in the line of superintendence of public repairs. The town was in a bad condition according to report of Governor Phillips. When he landed in April he found the place "in as bad a state as was possible to describe, both within and without."

The criminal courts of these early councils were the occasions of decidedly amusing proceedings. The Jean Picot affair and her sentence to "ducking at high water" have become familiar in history, and other sentences to the early offenders of justice were equally strange and ridiculous. In September, 1716, one Robert Nicols was charged with assaulting one of the officers of the garrison, and a court of four councillors found him guilty and passed the following sentence:—"You being found guilty by H. M. Council for this Province of the crime wherewith thou art charged, the punishment, therefore, inflicted on thee is to sit upon a gallows three days, half an hour each day, with a rope about thy neck, and a paper upon thy breast whereon shall be wrote, in capital letters, 'AUDACIOUS VILLAIN,' and afterwards thou art to be whipt at a cart's tail from the prison house up to the uppermost house of the Cape, and from thence back again to prison house, receiving each hundred paces five stripes upon your bare back with a cat-of-nine-tails, and then thou art to be turned over for a soldier."

Evidently to be a soldier was not so high an honor as it once had been. Another sentence given in 1732 was that the prisoner should be publicly whipped "at the cart's tail" at four places in the town, and at each place to receive five stripes on his bare back with a cat-o'-nine tails.

Piracy was rampant in Annapolis during the early years of the eighteenth century, and not only was serious damage done to the property by these attacks, but the onslaughts were usually accompanied with loss of life. There was thus a large element of precariety towards the prosperity with malcontents on every hand spreading dissatisfaction and alarm.

In August, 1781, the town was attacked by two rebel schooners carrying twelve guns each. The ships came up the harbor under cover of night and landed their men, unobserved. It was a genuine freebooters' excursion, with plans well laid and skillfully executed. The garrison was first attacked, the sentries silenced and the fort taken, while the soldiers slept. As soon as the day broke they turned their attention to the town, surrounded the houses, and, capturing every man and boy, locked them in the fort. Two of the inhabitants more daring than the rest, attempted to escape. They were discovered and promptly hung from the yard-arm of one of the schooners. Their fate served as a warning to any others who might be disposed to make a dash for freedom. After the whole town had been plundered, the guns in the fort spiked, the pirates made off, carrying with them the spoils of a most successful expedition.

The productiveness of Formosa is so great that it is believed that the present population of 2,500,000 could be raised to 10,000,000 without exhausting the fertility of the soil.

The Mission of the Child- ren's Aid Society

A Children's Aid Society or a Committee empowered to act under the Children's Protection Act of Alberta should be at work in every town and village in the Province to attend promptly to cases of child neglect or cruelty, and to act in the capacity of probation officers or friends to the boys and girls who are in need of the helpful advice that only an older person can give.

The work of the Children's Aid Society is:

To rescue homeless, abused or neglected children at the earliest possible age, from their unfortunate surroundings;

The finding of foster homes for children in need of such homes and the continuing of a watchful care over any children placed in such foster homes;

To protect society against the strongest of its foes—ignorance and vice, by the securing of good home conditions for children who would otherwise grow up under the most pernicious and evil influence;

To urge upon parents the serious results bound to accrue from the careless training or neglect of their children during the most impress-able years of early childhood;

To see that every child in the community has a chance to grow up to be a good citizen;

The home life of neglected children may be greatly improved by a little kindly intervention; that failing, there is a lay in Alberta which protects helpless children from abuse or neglect and it should be appealed to promptly.

Homeless children should be taken care of at once and placed either in foster homes or sent to the nearest Shelter where they may be cared for until foster homes are found.

Those interested in the work of the Children's Aid Society or those who know of cases of neglect or cruelty to children, or know of a home where a little child will be welcomed, are invited to write to the Superintendent of Neglected Children for Alberta, Edmonton.

PREMIER IN A WRECK

SIR WILFRID LAURIER HAS A NARROW ESCAPE

Special Train Carrying Premier and Party Collides with Freight Train Near Regina—Party Fortunately Escapes with Slight Injuries—Fireman is Probably Killed—Crews of Both Engines Jumped.

Pense, Sask.—The train having on board Sir Wilfrid Laurier and party, east bound from Moose Jaw, ran head-on into a west-bound freight, about nine o'clock on Friday night, three and a half miles west of here. Both engines were badly damaged, and five box cars were derailed, but the heavier passenger cars stood the shock better, and remained on the track.

Sir Wilfrid and most of his party were thrown violently to the floor, but beyond a few bruises none of the party were injured.

The engine crews both jumped to safety, after shutting off the steam and jamming on the air brakes, but the fireman on the premier's train was caught and buried in the wreckage.

The place where the collision took place is about fifteen or sixteen miles east of Moose Jaw.

Regina.—The special train of Sir Wilfrid Laurier has been mixed up in a bad wreck three and one-half miles west of Pense. The special, which was going fifty miles per hour, being some seven minutes behind time, collided with a freight train. Both engines were derailed and five freight cars were derailed.

Sir Wilfrid, who was sitting in his car at the time, was thrown violently to the floor, but immediately picked himself up and announced to those around him that he was uninjured.

Hon. Geo. P. Graham, who was in his car, received a badly wrenched knee, but at once proceeded to the premier's car. Other members of the party were badly shaken up, but none were seriously injured, with the exception of Fireman Kemp on the premier's train. The crews of both engines jumped to safety as soon as a collision was seen to be inevitable. The fireman, however, failed to jump, and now lies buried beneath the engine, likely dead. C. Temple, waiter on the press car, is reported to be injured internally, and Co. K, the conductor on the special train, to have one rib broken.

Dr. Ramsay, of Pense, who was passing near the scene of the wreck, was apprised by a newspaper man of what had happened, and at once went to the scene of the wreck, and rendered what assistance he was able.

No explanation is at present procurable as to what the freight train was doing on the track, as it was the premier's train that presumably had priority over all other traffic.

WATERWAY IN WEST

Preliminary Estimates for Ship Canal From Winnipeg to Edmonton Satisfactory

Ottawa.—Preliminary reports received at the public works department here indicate that surveying along the Saskatchewan river, for which a party was sent out some time ago, is going ahead, and by the time parliamentary assemblies there will be available preliminary estimates of the cost of the proposed waterway for grain from Edmonton to Winnipeg.

While not officially stated, it is roughly estimated that the work necessary to navigation along the Saskatchewan can be done for about fifteen million dollars. This is exclusive of the construction of locks to overcome the Grand Falls. In some places the river is six feet in depth and in others forty feet. It will require much dredging. It seems to be a sure thing, in political circles, that the waterways will be built, and if the estimates are received in time to remove any doubts as to its feasibility a preliminary appropriation is expected next session.

Division of Diocese Being Discussed
Calgary.—Should the diocese of Calgary, which at present includes the whole province of Alberta, be divided into two bishoprics with Calgary and Edmonton as headquarters, and with two bishops, or remain as it is under Bishop Pinkham of this city?

This is one of the most important questions to be discussed at the annual meeting of the provincial synod of the Anglican church for Rupert's Land, which includes the provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, being held in Prince Albert.

Rev. Archdeacon Gray, of Edmonton, has been mentioned for the position of bishop of the Edmonton diocese should the change go into effect, but it is understood that the representatives from the northern parts of the province to the synod meeting will oppose any division of the diocese on the grounds that the northern part of the province is not sufficiently settled to warrant this.

Effects of the Strike

Ottawa.—The labor department is preparing a report on the Grand Trunk strike, its causes and effects and conditions of the settlement.

"Few people appreciate how completely things were tied up," declared an officer of the department. It is understood that statistics have been secured from fifty collectors of customs and from agents of the department all over the province as to the effect of the strike on industry.

CROP CONDITIONS IN NORTH

Fall Wheat Good, Spring Wheat and Barley Fair, and Oats Not Very Good

Calgary.—Mr. C. W. Peterson, of the C. P. R. lands department, who has been on a tour of inspection of the company's land agencies in Central and Northern Alberta, returned to the city recently.

When asked regarding crop conditions in the country north of Calgary, Mr. Peterson said:

"On the whole, I am disappointed. I had hoped that the crop conditions of Northern and Central Alberta would have been sufficiently favorable to bring up the provincial average to respectable figures. My trip occupied the best part of ten days, during which time I visited our branch lines, did a good deal of driving along the Grand Trunk Pacific and Canadian Pacific extensions, and I think I had an opportunity of fairly sizing up the general crop conditions of the country.

"I am pleased to note that the farmers in the north are putting up a large quantity of hay, which will doubtless be required before the winter is over. The hay crop in the north is rather short.

"To characterize this year as a banner year for Central and Northern Alberta is to label what is, perhaps, the richest mixed farming district in the province, next to the irrigated areas.

"Where the winter wheat survived it is excellent. I should expect some very good yields of winter wheat from the north country this season. The spring wheat only appears to me to be fair, and where it is good the crop is very rank, and will be late in ripening. Undoubtedly the poorest crop in the north this year is the oats. I scarcely saw a good crop of oats on my entire trip. The barley is fair to middling.

"I think the best crops north of Calgary may be found in the district surrounding Edmonton and in the Stettler country. During my trip, I saw the same perplexing conditions that meet the eye in the south, viz., very excellent crops and very poor crops side by side. Poor farming methods may be to blame, but I rather suspect that accident plays a large part in such cases. Possibly the better fields were put in at the psychological moment, and were followed by a shower.

"Summing up the whole situation, the crop averages of Northern and Central Alberta this year will be very fair, but will not approach the high standard set during previous years."

HAVE FOUND GREAT TREASURE

Wreck of Steamer Atlantic, With $400,000 in Gold Aboard, Discovered in Lake Erie

Detroit, Mich.—Believing they have a $400,000 treasure in their grasp, men are guarding, night and day, what is believed by them to be the wreck of the Steamer Atlantic, off Long Point, in Lake Erie. The Atlantic was sunk in collision in 1852 by the steamer Odensburg, and 150 lives were lost. Many were drowned in their berths. The wreck lies in 158 feet of water. In the hold it is believed divers will find two safes containing $400,000 in gold. The wreck of the Atlantic was found virtually intact. No skeletons were found in the superficial examination.

C. P. R. Preparing for a Rush

Winnipeg.—"We are prepared to handle a great crop of wheat this year," was the statement given out by the C. P. R. recently. The officials are looking forward to the market becoming active about August 20. No definite idea can be formed as yet as to when a general movement of wheat will commence. The harvest, according to reports, has already commenced in sections, though not generally, and will be general throughout the west much earlier than last year.

Spanish Sovereigns' Narrow Escape

Southampton.—King Alfonso and Queen Victoria had a bad scare just before landing at Cowes, when a strong wind and heavy tide drove the two tenders in which they and their suite were being conveyed from the steamer into violent collision. The windows and chandeliers of the tenders were broken, and the vessels themselves damaged. There was great alarm momentarily, but the tenders soon righted and proceeded without further mishap.

RED DEER WANTS C.N.R.

THE C.N.R. PROPOSED ROUTE CAUSES TROUBLE

The Brazeau-Stettler Line to Cross C. and E. Between Red Deer and Blackfalds—On Account of Engineering Difficulties Cannot Run Closer Than Four or Five Miles From Red Deer.

Calgary.—With the object of waiting upon the department of railways and being present to represent the town of Red Deer when the Canadian Northern railway asks for the approval of its plans for the Brazeau-Stettler line, Mayor S. McKee and E. Michener, M.L.A., passed through Calgary recently on their way to Ottawa.

The line in question is being built under the charter of the Alberta Midland railway, the bonds of which have been guaranteed by the provincial government for a distance of sixty miles. This charter provides that the road should be run through Red Deer, but the Canadian Northern has evidently abandoned its intention of crossing the C. and E. branch of the C. P. R. at Lacombe, and instead, want to cross this line somewhere between Red Deer and Blackfalds, swing around to the southwest of Red Deer and then westward to Rocky Mountain house.

Some time ago M. H. Macleod, general manager of the Canadian Northern, visited Red Deer and said that it was the intention of the company to build a spur line into that town, but that engineering difficulties made it impossible to run the main line closer than four or five miles from Red Deer.

The route for which the C. N. R. is asking approval crosses and recrosses that of the Alberta Central, an independent road now under construction, and for a long distance parallels that road within a couple of miles, and it is to protest against Red Deer being sidetracked in this fashion that the deputation is going to Ottawa.

On the same train with them is W. Carlisle Moore, director and right of way agent of the Alberta Central. This line holds a charter from Moose Jaw to the Yellow Head Pass, and it is said they have the best grade of any road heading for the Yellow Head. Mr. Moore is going to Ottawa to look after the interests of this road and states that the directors of the Alberta Central couldn't see why another company should be allowed to come right on the grade it took two years to find out, and zig-zag across their route without opening up any new territory.

Mr. Moore also strongly contradicted a rumor that the Alberta Central was a C. P. R. road.

RECIPROCITY TO BE CONSIDERED

Cabinet Ministers Will Meet in Ottawa About Sept. 8 to Prepare for November Session

Ottawa.—Hon. W. S. Fielding and Hon. Wm. Patterson are expected to sail for Canada at the end of August, and practically all of the cabinet ministers will be in the capital again about September 8, to take up the work of preparing for the next session of parliament, which will probably begin in the middle of November.

The question of the proposed reciprocity treaty with the United States will be one of the first questions to be considered by the cabinet.

In October the conference between the Washington and Ottawa cabinet ministers will be held, but it is unlikely that there will be a general tariff revision, pending the inquiry to be instituted by the tariff commission that Sir Wilfrid has made mention of in the Canadian West.

BRITAIN STILL MISTRESS OF SEA

Largest, Fastest and Most Powerful Cruiser in the World Launched Saturday

London.—The armoured cruiser Lion, the largest, fastest and most powerful cruiser in the world, was launched at the dockyard at Devonport recently. The keel of the giant cruiser was laid November 29, 1909.

Though the usual secrecy in regard to the design was at first maintained, it is now known that the cruiser upon its 700 feet of deck will carry eight guns of 13 1/2-inch calibre, throwing projectiles of 1,200 pounds. They will be mounted in four barbettes, all on the centre line of the ship.

The cruiser will have a displacement when completed of 26,350 tons, and will be driven by turbine engines of 70,000 horse-power, giving her an expected speed of 28 knots. Her superiority over her predecessor in the battleship class is shown by the comparison of her 70,000 horse-power with the earlier maximum of 45,000.

Archbishops' Canada Fund Increases

London, Eng.—Up to the present £32,000 has been subscribed to the Canada fund started by the Archbishops of Canterbury and York. The offers of personal service have shown a large increase. The bishop of Oxford has become chairman in connection with the fund and Canon Beal secretary. It is hoped that a great move forward will be made shortly.

Public Health Director Coming West

Ottawa.—Dr. F. Montizambert, director general of public health, left here recently on a tour of all the quarantine stations in the west, going as far as Prince Rupert.

DEVELOPING PEACE RIVER

Trading and Navigation Co., of Montreal, Will Spend $300,000 on That District

Winnipeg.—Three hundred thousand dollars will be expended in the west during the coming year, by the Peace River Trade and Navigation Company, of Montreal, according to the statement of the general manager, F. S. Lawrence, who has been spending a few days in the city preparatory to starting for a three months' trip through the Peace River and Athabasca Lake districts.

It is the purpose of the company to expend at least $150,000 at once in developing the Peace River country, where work will be carried on in connection with the immigration department. During the present trip Mr. Lawrence intends to map out the work for the year. Among other things it is the intention to start a large horse and cattle ranch for the purpose of supplying incoming settlers with pure bred cattle and horses.

He expects to have at least 350 horses and cattle on the ranch before the end of the year. The company also contemplates building a stern-wheel steamer which will run from Vermilion Falls to Hudson's Hope, B.C., a distance of about 500 miles. Hudson's Hope is but a short distance from Prince Rupert, so that the trip will be through a country but little known, although prominently in the public eye at the present time.

Mr. Lawrence first visited Winnipeg in '79, when his father, E. J. Lawrence, took his family to Fort Vermilion, a post to which he was sent as a missionary. The trip from Winnipeg was made by buckboard and open boats, on the old Hudson's Bay route, by Isle La Crosse and Green Lake, before the Edmonton route was opened up. The trip took from May till September with steady travelling.

This year Mr. Lawrence will make the same trip in three weeks, and he expects before he is much older to make it in a few days in a comfortable car direct from Winnipeg.

Mr. Lawrence knows the north country thoroughly, and has long had the honor of attaching F.R.G.S. to his name, given for exploration work. During the past four years, which he has spent in Eastern Canada, he has spoken to many Canadian clubs, and other important gatherings of men, of the north country, he has written about the district and has done much to exploit that part of the west.

His present trip will be made by stage from Edmonton to Athabasca Landing and then by steamer to the head of Lesser Slave Lake, then on horseback, or as it is often expressed in the north, on the hurricane deck of a cayuse to Peace River. The rest of the trip to Fort Smith he will make by canoe and will return to Athabasca Landing, a trip of about 1,700 miles.

IRRIGATION CONVENTION

Important Resolution Introduced by Mr. Peace—Calgary is Favored for Next Meeting

Kamloops.—The convention of the Western Canada Irrigation association devoted its time for resolutions, one of the most important of which was offered by Delegate Peace, of Calgary. It took the form of a request that the governments of the Dominion and of British Columbia hurry the selection and reservation of water storage sites on crown lands, and also acquire privately-owned sites which may be required for the purpose of land irrigation.

Another resolution requests the director of the meteorological survey to supply rain gauges to observers in Alberta and British Columbia, so that an accurate record of the rainfall in every district may be obtained.

Calgary is likely to be chosen as the place of meeting next year.

WRECK OF THE PRINCESS MAY

Pilot Blames Thick Haze and Tortuous Channel as Cause of Accident

Vancouver, B. C.—Arrangements are being made to salvage the Princess May, which was wrecked, without loss of life, off Sentinel Island, at the southern entrance to Lynn canal.

Pilot Richardson was in charge of the vessel at the time, and blames the thick haze and tortuous passage for the accident. The steamer remained afloat two hours and then sank at the stern, her masts still showing.

By this time all the people had been taken on boats, and as soon as daylight came they landed without trouble at Sentinel Island lighthouse.

The engine room was flooded when the steamer first struck, so that the wireless apparatus went out of business after the first call for aid went out. It is not likely there will be much trouble in salvaging the vessel.

Wheat Yield Good

Lethbridge, Alta.—Harvesting is in full swing in the Lethbridge districts supposed popularly to be burned up. Cardston has no losses at all in winter wheat, much of which will go over forty bushels to the acre.

At Magrath the wheat will yield from ten to twenty-five bushels to the acre. New Dayton and Warner wheat is going from 15 to 25. North of Lethbridge fields that looked hopeless six weeks ago are yielding fifteen to the acre. In some districts it is reported that all that is worth cutting at all will give over twenty. Elevators are being built at several points and much harvesting machinery is being sold. The yield all round is much better than was expected.

NEED MORE RAILROADS

ROAD IS REQUIRED TO SERVE SOUTHERN ALBERTA

Deputation of Grain Growers Calls Attention of the Premier to Pressing Necessity of a Road from Weyburn to Lethbridge—Large Farming District Without Railroad Facilities.

Moose Jaw, Sask.—At the conclusion of the meeting of the Grain Growers with Sir Wilfrid Laurier here, Hugh McKellar made a vigorous address, calling the attention of the premier to the very great need of railway construction in the southern portion of Saskatchewan and Alberta. The district is that lying between Weyburn and Lethbridge, into which hundreds of farmers have gone during the past few years.

The trouble in the matter of railway construction in this area, as explained by a grain grower subsequent to the meeting, was that none of the land in the district was owned by the railway companies and consequently there was less gain for the companies in construction. All the land is the property of the Dominion government, and there was consequently greater reason why the government should take action in the securing of the construction of a road. The C. P. R. built twenty-five miles through the west from Weyburn last year and are building twenty-six miles this year. It might be urged, said Mr. McKellar, that the provincial government should be approached in this matter, but the provincial governments were loaded up to the neck already.

"What would you propose in the case?" interjected Sir Wilfrid.

Mr. McKellar suggested that pressure might be brought to bear on the Canadian Pacific to hasten the construction of their line, to which the minister of railways subsequently replied that it was only after the exertion of much pressure that the C. P. R. had arranged to build twenty-six miles of the road this year.

The case for the Grain Growers was presented by H. Dorrell, president of the agricultural society, and Benjamin Thompson. Mr. Dorrell expressed the hope that the premier before he left the west would accept a life membership in the association of Grain Growers, and Sir Wilfrid smiled assent.

Speaking of the construction of the Hudson Bay railway, the representative of the Grain Growers said that this road had been promised to the farmers of the west for more than twenty years.

"But not by me," interposed the premier amid laughter.

The matter of the establishment of the public abattoir was introduced by the Grain Growers. Sir Wilfrid stated that the question had been brought to the consideration of the cabinet by farmers of the province of Quebec as long ago as 1870. He added that he understood that the same topic was to be introduced by the ranchers of Alberta and he would reserve his statements on the matter until he had reached that province.

C. N. R. TROUBLES AT WINNIPEG

Imported Special Constables From St. Paul Refused to Take Oath of Allegiance

Winnipeg, Man.—Thirty-n imported strikebreakers, hired under the auspices of the C. N. R., left St. Paul last Wednesday, but were held up at the boundary, not having the necessary $25 cash. This was arranged and the men continued their journey to Winnipeg. Here they were informed that they were to act as special constables, patrolling C. N. R. property at $2.50 per day. All went well until the men were taking the oath as constables, and came to the part requiring them to swear allegiance to King George. This they flatly refused to do, nor did they like to work under the conditions prevailing.

They asked for return transportation, which was refused, but an appeal to Consul General Jones resulted in their promptly securing the desired transportation, although they were not paid for lost time. It is stated that the present force of special constables are somewhat lax in their patrolling, and are making no arrests. They consequently were to have been summarily dismissed if the imported men could have been secured.

Strathcona Won Earl Grey's Shield

Ottawa.—The first winner of the Earl Grey challenge shield is the town of Strathcona, Alta.

The conditions of the competition were made that the shield was to go to the town or city in Canada which had the largest number of cadets in proportion to its population. The population was figured from January 1, 1910, and the number of cadets from the actual strength of the corps on May 24th last.

Strathcona has a population of 5,000, and has 150 cadets. The second place goes to a county in Quebec.

Many Crazy in Montreal

Montreal.—Ten persons under examination as to their sanity, five more sent to Longue point as lunatics, and six more gathered up by the police, is the state of affairs for a day and a half in Montreal.

Dr. Picotte, city mental disease expert, says the situation is extremely abnormal. In fact, he said, it is a veritable outbreak that he cannot account for.

THE RIFLE CLUB

From Trochu Times

At the official shoot of the Rifle Club on Saturday, August, 6th the following scores were made at 200 hundred yards;

Possible Score 35

Geo Nichol	24
W R Prevette	23
K O Johnson	17

The attendance at the club's shoots has with a few exceptions, been very small. Members of the club should endeavour to attend at least one of the shoots held every week on Wednesday evening and Saturday afternoon. Every facility is provided for members of the club to shoot and the free grant of rifles offers an opportunity to acquire the art of rifle shooting which should be taken advantage of.

The entrance fee to the club is one dollar and the yearly subscription is also one dollar. The Secretary Sergt. H Townsend, R.N.W.M.P., will be pleased to receive subscriptions from all members who have not already paid. Any person desirous of joining the club may do so on application to the Secretary.

THE MARKET

Local prices in Oats have, if anything, risen and Oats may be valued at 50 cents, although many farmers are holding at 55. The wheat crops in the district are looking very fair and the grain, in most instances, is of the first quality. Oat prospects improved the last week and farmers will probably harvest a bigger crop than at first expected. On the whole, however, there will undoubtedly be a shortage of oats in the province.

In other parts of the province the general condition of the crops has shown a wonderful improvement and the harvest will be considerably heavier than the dry weather of June promised.

CATTLE

The prices of cattle have not changed. Several stock-men of means are looking for small and large bunches of cattle and the local market may be brisker after haying.

Mr Wm. Milne of London Ont. accompanied by his grandson, Master Glen Neale, is visiting his son Dr. J D Milne of Trochu for a few weeks.

THE FALL FAIR

From Trochu Times

September 21st is drawing near and we do not hesitate, once again, to ask the farmers and ranchers of the district to put their shoulders to the wheel and exert every effort to make the Fall Fair a success. Those who intend to exhibit, and we trust there will be a large number, should lose no time in preparing their stock for the ring. There are numerous classes in which to show, and there is scarcely a rancher or farmer of the district who has not stock of some description for which he can find a favourable entry. One thing which we have to remember is that the fair will be successful to a greater or less degree according to whether the number of entries in each and every class is large or small.

In the Fine Arts department, too, the number of entries is the main support on which the success of the exhibition rests. Let every lady of the district enter a work of some description.

Information regarding the Trochu Fall Fair can be obtained by writing to the Secretary of the Trochu Agricultural Society, L C Echenfelder, Trochu.

TROCHU.

C I Pearson made a trip to Carbon this week.

Born—To Mr and Mrs James H Potts of Trochu on Friday Aug. 5, a daughter.

It is understood that a movement is being made to secure local option for Trochu.

An enjoyable social evening was held at the Presbyterian Church on Monday evening Aug. 8th.

The Times will be glad to receive items of local interest from its readers.

C J Cote of Cote & Bell, proprietors of the Hotel Trochu, spent several days in Trochu last week attending to business interests.

The J Buttrille's auction sale of household effects was cancelled entirely, the furniture having been disposed of privately.

C. C. Masterson has purchased the barber business on Main St. from Robt. Haldon who is leaving the district.

Forty extra teams have been placed on the grading work being done south of Trochu in the Trochu Resident Engineer's division.

Messrs. H. de Reinach-Werth, E. Papillard and T Theodoli have rented Mr and Mrs Buttrille horse in the valley.

The prize list and entries arranged by the Trochu Agricultural Society for the Fall Fair, have been completed and will be published shortly in the form of a booklet.

The dance arranged by the Trochu Symphony Orchestra for Friday evening, August 5, had to be abandoned owing to the wet weather. So far as known, the next dance in Trochu will be held on the night of the Fall Fair, September 21.

Constable A. Godillo, R.N.W.M.P., left for Banff last week to act as escort to Lady Laurier, who will remain at the famous resort during the time that Sir Wilfred is touring the West in the interests of the Liberal party.

We regret to record the death of Mr Chas Pearce, formerly of London, Ont., who came to Alberta nine months ago for his health. Deceased, who was staying with his sister Mrs Wm Poole of Curlew, passed away suddenly on August 8th.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Buttrille gave a farewell dinner to a few friends at their residence in the valley on Wednesday evening, August 3, departing from Trochu early the next morning with their family for France. Mr. Buttrille has been engaged in business here for the past two years but, owing to failing health, is forced to seek a change of climate and a quieter life. After visiting his relatives and friends in France Mr. Buttrille will reside with his family in Switzerland.
